Cat Restraint Law

CATS INDOORS

Historically, dogs, but not cats have been covered by local animal control ordinances. Cats that roam free, whether owned, stray, or feral, often lead short, traumatic, and painful lives. They also kill birds and other wildlife, and spread disease to other cats, wildlife, and humans.

Unfortunately, too many people fail to spay or neuter their cats or keep them indoors, and some people cruelly abandon cats they can no longer care for. For these reasons, communities increasingly recognize the importance of extending responsible pet requirements to cover cats as well as dogs. Cat licensing, control, and restraint ordinances help ensure that cats receive the care and protection they deserve. Progressive provisions found in ordinances include the following requirements:

- ✓ Mandatory spay/neuter of all cats over six months of age
- ✓ Requirement for all cats to be licensed and vaccinated against rabies
- ✓ Mandatory confinement of cats to their owner's property or physical restraint when off the premises

The City of Aurora, Colorado initiated an ordinance that includes these provisions, and excerpts from that ordinance are included in this fact sheet.

Mandatory licensing and rabies vaccination have been required in Aurora since February 12, 1990.

Mandatory spay/neuter, a prohibition on cats running loose, and limits on the number of cats per household became effective in 1994 (An evaluation demonstrating the positive impact of the ordinance is included on the last page).

Many cities and counties have implemented cat ordinances, and have had great success controlling cat populations, keeping cats healthier and safer, and protecting local wildlife. Some communities also limit the number of pets per household with exceptions for registered breeders. Consider a local cat ordinance in your area for the health and safety of cats, humans, and wildlife!

STATISTICS FOR AURORA CITY ORDINANCE COMMUNITY SERVICES DEPARTMENT ANIMAL CARE DIVISION

SPAY/NEUTER AND CAT ORDINANCES WORKING WELL: The 1994 year-end statistics reveal Aurora's animal ordinance revisions working well compared to 1993. Results have been similar for both dogs and cats: fewer are coming into the shelter as strays, more are being claimed by owners and returning home from the shelter, more are wearing licenses so they can be returned home more quickly and easily, and less are being euthanized. Public education efforts have also made more people and organizations aware of the Aurora shelter. The 2010 statistics show that the program is continuing to be effective.
